

59-1-601 District court jurisdiction.

- (1) In addition to the jurisdiction granted in Section 63G-4-402, beginning July 1, 1994, the district court shall have jurisdiction to review by trial de novo all decisions issued by the commission after that date resulting from formal adjudicative proceedings.
- (2) As used in this section, "trial de novo" means an original, independent proceeding, and does not mean a trial de novo on the record.
- (3)
  - (a) In any appeal to the district court pursuant to this section taken after January 1, 1997, the commission shall certify a record of its proceedings to the district court.
  - (b) This Subsection (3) supercedes Section 63G-4-403 pertaining to judicial review of formal adjudicative proceedings.

Amended by Chapter 382, 2008 General Session